SAY!

(By CHARLES J. ARNOLD)

RE-ELECTION OF R. E. PETERS ASSURED

This morning there came to my desk a letter from Donald D. Hoover, state director of publicity for the Military Training Camps, in which he tells me that the quota for Putnam County in the camp to be held this year in Ft. Benjamin Harrison has not been filled. The county is entitled to ten representatives in the camp and only seven have, so far, enlisted. This is a splendid opportunity for any young Putnam County man to enjoy a fine outing and at the same time secure splendid military instructions. The officers in charge of the camp are anxious to secure a full quota by June 1, and any Putnam county boy interested should immediately get in touch with the officers in charge. Address "Military Training Camps Ass'n., Indianapolis, Indiana, 510 Meridian Life Building."

That peach orchard of mine, out Northwood way, sure is "perking up" since Ollie Larkin builded that fine cement pavement along its border. The pavement will be open to the public before long and then, Oh Boy, that peach orchard will be "sittin' pretty."

Well, that long sought rain has "come," and believe me it was much needed and greatly appreciated.

Boy, those oats, meadows, wheat and corn are sure responding to this wet treatment.

I stopped off a few minutes yesterday afternoon to say "howdy" to my old friend Ross Hurst, down where the National Road and the Cloverdale road collide. Ross is proprietor and manager of an eating house and filling station at this road junction, but, it is no place to stop for a friendly call on him, for he is so disgustingly busy all the time he does not have opportunity for any social activities. He certainly feeds 'em and fills 'em down there at the junction. And if you do not believe it, just read a big sign he has displayed which says "186,600 sandwiches sold here last year. There must be a reason." That sure is a lot of sandwiches. After standing around a bit, without making much headway with my social call, Ross took time to look up and pitch me a big red apple, as a token of friendship and probably a hint that it was time for me to go. Which I did. But, thanks for the big red apple, Ross.

If you do not believe that Cloverdale people are interested in the proposed hydraulic power company dam at Hoosier Highlands, just go down to the south Putnam county town and wander down the street. I did yesterday. And I met at least five groups of men, and all six of them were discussing some phase of the project.

QUESTIONNAIRE
I want your opinion of "Say." To make it easy for you I worked out this questionnaire. Fill it out by checking your opinion. And if you have any side remarks to offer, so much the better.

My idea of a slow motion picture is the way some folks get down on the job in the morning.

From now on, the Montgomery (Ala.) Journal ought to have an easy time of it, for they have just passed their one hundredth year and, as everybody in the newspaper business knows the first hundred years are the hardest.

My idea of inferiority complex is the feeling you get when your ten-year old wakes up to the fact that you are not the smartest man in the world.

TILDEN TO GIVE COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS JUNE 11

MEMBER OF DEPAUW FACULTY HAS BEEN CHOSEN TO ADDRESS EIGHTY-NINTH GRADUATION CLASS

MURLIN TO GIVE CLASS SERMON

Final Activities To Commence June 8 With Senior Class Play—Last Appearance Of President

An innovation in the way of a commencement program has been announced for DePauw University's eighty-ninth annual graduation exercises. The commencement address is to be given by Professor Francis Calvin Tilden of the DePauw faculty, and the Baccalaureate sermon will be delivered by Dr. Lemuel Herbert Murlin, resigning president. The program will be well-filled with alumni activities and senior class activities.

Prof. Tilden has been closely associated with the University for thirty-five years and has a large number of friends not only among graduates and former students but with the undergraduate student body. He is a frequent speaker at alumni meetings all over the country.

The Baccalaureate sermon will be the last occasion during his administration that President Murlin will address DePauw students and alumni. Dr. and Mrs. Murlin will leave immediately for the East, to sail early in the summer for Berlin where Dr. Murlin will accept the pastorate of the American church of Berlin.

The commencement week activities will begin Friday, June 8, with the senior class exercises at 9:30 a. m.

The baccalaureate sermon will be given on Sunday morning. Formation of the academic procession will take place at 9:45 at Meharry Hall, and the sermon will be delivered in Bowman Memorial gymnasium at 10:30. A concert will be given in Meharry hall at 4 o'clock, and University vesper services will be held in the gymnasium building at 7 o'clock.

The climax of the week's activities will occur on Monday morning. The academic procession will form at 9:15 and march to a specially constructed platform on the campus south of Meharry hall, where the 308 candidates will receive degrees. The commencement exercises will begin at 10 a. m. A feature of the week will be dedication of Lucy Rowland hall, new $280,000 dormitory for women, the gift of the late Edward Rector and his wife, Lucy Rowland Rector. Mrs. Rector will attend the dedication.

BOARD OPPOSES SUNDAY SHOWS

The Community Board of Religious Education held its last meeting of the year, May 16.

A report of the work done in Character education in the city schools was of much interest.

Between seven hundred and seven hundred fifty pupils in the first six grades of the city schools were in classes which met twice a week over a period of ten weeks.

This work was made possible by the co-operation of the Board and the department of Religious Education in DePauw, with the city school system under the leadership of Dr. Bartlett.

Many favorable comments have been made on the work but all realize that the program is not adequate for the needs of the community.

It is hoped that in the near future that the work may be extended as means are made available to cover the whole school year and through the Junior and Senior high school.

Plans are being made for a five-day training school to be held in Greencastle early in October.

The Board went on record as being opposed to the opening of the theaters of Greencastle on Sunday.

CONDEMNED TO DEATH

Condemned to death by the ravages of a strange radium disease, these five women are fighting in the courts to push through an action for $250,000 damages against the United States Radium Corporation in Newark, N. J. Upper left: Mrs. Albina Larice; upper center, Katherine Schaub; right, Mrs. Edna Hussman; lower left, Mrs. Quinta McDonald and Grace Fryer.

They allege that they contracted the poisoning while working for the radium corporation eight or more years ago.

These five painted the hands and luminous figures on watches, each completing 250 watches daily. They moistened their brushes on their lips, then dipped the brushes into radium paint which slowly infected their blood until now they are beyond hope of life much longer.

No cure has been found for the poisoning and attorneys for the five women have found a long and thus far losing battle to gain some restitution for them.

Each plaintiff has instituted a suit for $250,000 against the radium company, but the statutes declare that such action must be filed within two years of the injury. The defendant company bases its defense on this interpretation of the statute.

TIME BOMBS ROCK HOME OF EXECUTIONER

RICHMOND HILL RESIDENCE OF ROBERT ELLIOTT IN NEW YORK DEMOLISHED BY TERRIFIC DETONATIONS

SENT SACCO-VANZETTI TO DEATH

Intended Victim, His Wife, Two Children And A Guest Miraculously Escape Injury

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS)—Two time bombs which exploded with terrific detonations within a few seconds of each other shortly before two a. m., today practically demolished the Richmond Hill home of Robert Elliott, the executioner who pulled the switch which sent Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti to eternity. Elliott, his wife and two children and a guest miraculously escaped injury.

Police had only one vague clue to aid their investigation of the bombing. A red automobile was seen speeding from the scene shortly after the explosion.

Elliott is the official executioner of New York state. He also officiates in that capacity in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. When Sacco and Vanzetti were condemned to die in August 23, 1927 in the Massachusetts state prison at Charlestown, Elliott was selected as executioner.

Before and after the execution, Elliott received anonymous letters threatening him with dire punishment for officiating. For many months after the execution he and his family were closely guarded by the police.

Elliott told the police after the bombing today that he was certain the bombs were placed in his home by fanatical sympathizers of the two Italian radicals, who were found guilty of murder after one of the longest and most widely discussed trials on record.

The authorities are certain that the infernal machines were time bombs. All radicals known to have violent tendencies are being watched closely by the police. Numerous detectives, members of the bomb squad and a company of fire-fighters arrived at the scene shortly after the bombing.

Elliott was the executioner at the electrocution in Sing Sing prison of Henry Judd Gray and Ruth Snyder, convicted of the murder of the woman's husband, Albert Snyder.

COMMITTEE TURNS TO CONTESTS

DEADLOCK BETWEEN MAYOR CLAUDE GREGG AND PETER SCHLOOT IN SECOND DISTRICT UP TO STATE BODY

BELIEVE FORMER IS FAVORED

County Chairmanship In Delaware County Protested By Lewis Aker Supporters—Mrs. Flynn Slated For Vice Chairmanship

INDIANAPOLIS, May 18.—With the re-election of R. Earl Peters, of Ft. Wayne, Democratic state chairman, said to be practically assured, interest in the reorganization meeting of the state committee Friday at the Claypool hotel was centered in the second district chairmanship deadlock between Mayor Claude Gregg, of Vincennes, and Peter Schloot, of Linton. The contest was put up to the state committee for decision when the county chairmen were unable to break the deadlock.

Gregg, a former state commander of the American Legion was favored by the state committee, according to his friends. Credence was lent to this report when the Schloot backers began urging that the contest be referred back to the district committee, it was said.

Another contest facing the state committee was the protest of Lewis Aker, of Muncie, that W. J. Linebeck, of Albany, had been illegally elected Delaware county chairman. Linebeck was supported by George R. Dale, Muncie publisher and a candidate for the nomination for Governor, while Aker and his friends sought to wrest the organization from the Dale forces. It was asserted by the Aker leaders that Dale and Frederick had effected a combination in Delaware county and it was said that the Frederick forces are supporting Linebeck in his contentions before the state committee.

Mrs. A. P. Flynn of Logansport, is slated for re-election as state vice-chairman without opposition, as is Marshall Williams, secretary of the state committee. As soon as the committee is reorganized an arrangements committee to prepare for the state convention, June 6 and 7, and another committee to handle platform suggestions will be appointed.

GLORIOUS BETSY

NOVELIZED BY
ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1933, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

"GLORIOUS BETSY," starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. picture of this novel. Based on the play by Rida Johnson Young.

SYNOPSIS

Secret Springs Inn is the scene of an early morning duel over a miniature of Betsy Patterson. Her French tutor, La Vert, wins the duel and the miniature from Preston, who boasted that Betsy had given it to him. Struggling in the woods, La Vert meets Betsy, who has been scolding in the stream on a dare. He is silent when she chides him for his lack of ambition. Later he is discharged for insolence by her father. Returning to the Inn, barefoot, Betsy overhears her aunt complaining of her unladylike conduct to her father.

"That's not the point," her father's voice came booming along the hallway, interrupted now and again by the softer tones of Miss Massenbird. "Am I never to have a moment's peace in this disgusting place!"

"Oh, dear, it's started now, all right," Betsy murmured to herself. Hastily she ran to the bench along the wall of the portico and began to struggle with her stockings. But the voices were coming closer and closer. "Oh, oh," she breathed. "Battles in the air, and I'm the enemy." She gave up the idea of trying to put on the stockings, and gathered them up in a little bunch and pushed them in her shoes.

"Where is she? Where is she? Where's Betsy?" the Major demanded loudly, stomping out onto

"I'll have no more such nonsense," the porch, followed by Miss Massenbird.

"Here I am, father," Betsy called in a voice that dripped honey, and hastily thrust the shoes and stockings behind her back.

"Oh, there you are, Miss," Patterson stamped over towards the bench where Betsy, smiling radiantly, had excoined herself. "And now will you explain—"

"My father, what a world of confusion you have this morning," Betsy regarded her father with the most innocent of expressions.

"Well, of all the brazen, impudent—put on your stockings at once, Miss!" The Major glowered down at Betsy's feet. "If I were a young woman I would be ashamed to show myself—indeed I would. Tramping about the country in that disgraceful manner!"

"But you're not a young woman—so you aren't ashamed," Betsy returned impudently, smiling up at her father with mocking eyes. "Properly! Miss Massenbird threw better! Miss Massenbird threw better! Miss Massenbird threw better!"

"Well, Betsy turned on her heel and pouted most convincingly. "If I were an old man I'd be ashamed to be sold by my only daughter for rising early and trying to economize on leather." She stuck out a pink-toed foot and regarded it gravely, and then looked from her father to her aunt, her head on one side, her eyes twinkling.

"What!" Patterson exploded. "Now, young lady, I'll have no more of such nonsense. It's preposterous! It's—it's—" he puffed and bellowed, and swallowed his words, much to Betsy's inward amusement.

"I'm shocked!" Miss Massenbird put in severely. "I'm shocked and horrified! To think that a niece of mine could do such a thing. But it's just as I've said, William," she turned on the Major and shook her finger warningly. "Just as I've said. It's those French ways—they're not our ways. I never did hold with them. They have no sense of decency, no moral character—no—no—"

she sputtered almost as much as had the Major, and ended lamely by repeating, "I'm shocked!"

"Nonsense," Betsy returned with some asperity. "You're easily shocked. All your life you've been thinking in a simple bed!"

"Horror!" Miss Massenbird sank back into the nearest chair and began searching for her smelling salts. "Oh, dear! Oh, dear! To think that things should ever come to such a pass." She sniffed her salts violently and fanned herself with the little black fan that she kept in her "indispensable" for just such emergencies. And thanks to Betsy, the salts and the fan were kept in fairly constant use.

"Betsy!" Patterson boomed. "This is worse and worse." He towered over his daughter, his apoplectic temper quite out of control. "I do not want to hear another word. Not another word, but put those stockings on at once, Miss, at once! Do you hear me?"

"All right, then, but don't you look," Betsy fumbled around and drew forth her shoes and stockings and this time succeeded in getting them on in some manner or other while her father paced up and down, swearing underneath his breath.

"There, there, now," Betsy rose from the bench, the offending shoes and stockings at last set to rights. "Will you two never stop quarreling. It's perfectly dreadful to hear you. Come now, kiss and make up like good children." She stood between the two frate guardians of her welfare, smiling as calmly and as happily as though nothing had ever happened.

"See here, Miss, listen to me," Patterson began again, shaking his finger violently in Betsy's face. "Not another word, father. I simply won't listen." Betsy caught the warning finger and drew the Major's hand within her arm.

"Not another word until you two kiss and are friends again. It's really a fine example you are to me. Come, Aunt Ellen," she drew Miss Massenbird from her chair and joined her hand to that of the Major's.

"This may be all very well, Miss," Patterson began again, though somewhat mollified, "but don't think you have at all altered my plans. No, Miss, back home you go today, and no more of this French."

"What!" Why, there are hundreds of French tutors in Baltimore," Betsy laughed. "Better a hundred at Baltimore than this one at the Springs," the Major snapped.

"But, father," Betsy protested. "No, I have been the butt too long." Patterson snapped, ignoring his daughter's pleas. "Ellen," he turned to Miss Massenbird, "go and tell Etta to pack the boxes."

"Yes, William," she replied meekly, and turned towards the entrance of the hotel.

"Oh, no, please, Aunt Ellen," Betsy begged. "Father, I just won't have it!" She stamped a dainty foot, small and slender in its heeled slipper of soft black kid. "You know it ruins my gowns every time they have to be packed."

"Your gowns, indeed, Miss," Betsy's aunt turned from her errand with a withering glance of scorn at her niece's morning dress, so scant in comparison to her own voluminous skirts. "For all the clothes you wear, you might as well pack nothing at all. I cannot understand the lack of modesty in the young people of today. Why, when I was a girl, if anyone had so much as seen me displaying my—my person in such clothes I would have died of shame. It all comes from this French influence," she sniffed.

"But, Aunt Ellen, it's the style," Betsy defended herself. "Why, everyone wears dresses like this nowadays."

"They may in France," Miss Massenbird smoothed down her skirts and preened her petticoated propriety. "But that is no reason why our girls should follow such an outlandish custom."

"Why, Auntie, even Josephine, the wife of the great Napoleon, wears dresses just like this," Betsy flared.

"Hmph!" Miss Massenbird sniffed. "And I have heard that they do say she's no better than she ought to be."

"Well, you know yourself that this dress was copied from the one in 'The Ladies European Magazine'."

"There, William," Miss Massenbird turned in triumph to her brother-in-law, "what did I tell you. It's the influence of those terrible books that come from the continent. And you allow them to be brought into your very house."

"I, William, for one," she drew herself up haughtily, "do not hold with such nonsense, and I'm surprised that you allow your own daughter to dress and behave in such an unladylike manner. I don't know what the young people are coming to, nowadays."

"Well, I can't see how hoop skirts strengthened your morals, Auntie," Betsy returned flippantly. (To be continued.)

DISTINGUISHED ITALIAN ENTERTAINED BY LEGION

INDIANAPOLIS, May 17.—"We stand here today in the midst of America's greatest memorial to those who served in the World War," said Frank M. McHale, of Logansport, State Commander of the American Legion, in introducing Signor Nicola Sansanelli, distinguished soldier of Italy, who presented an Italian flag to be treasured among the Indiana battle flags. The reception accorded Signor Sansanelli, president of the International veterans organization of Fidae, of which the Legion is the member association in the United States, was perhaps one of the most colorful ever extended a foreign visitor to the State capital.

"Indiana has been most generous and patriotic in dealing with her veterans, as is attested by this splendid memorial, a project backed by the Legion," said State Commander McHale. "The Indiana Legion here today pledges itself anew to keep alive the fires of patriotism that actuated 135,000 Hoosiers to enter the World War and to the principles that are inspiring the Legionnaires of Indiana to continue in such splendid membership to the Indiana Legion, peace time the spirit of service they exemplified in war," said State Commander McHale.

"In the five months of this year a few of the projects of the Indiana Legion working with the national Legion will show the character of its service to the veteran, the state, and the nation. The Indiana Legion has been in the forefront of the fight to adequately care for the disabled World war veteran, the widow and the orphan of the deceased ex-service man. It has handled the claims of thousands of those who suffered from the World war, it has done a splendid work at the Knightstown Soldiers and Sailors Orphans Home, and has undertaken to obtain a government hospital in this state to care for the Indiana disabled.

"The Indiana Legion has backed actively the Universal draft measure, pending in Congress at this time as the Capper-Johnson bill. This universal mobilization bill, is one of the greatest measures every propounded for national defense and security of our nation. The Indiana Legion has backed the Citizens Military Training Camp, believing such to be a wonderful opportunity to develop the youth of our state as Italy is developing the youth of her country. Indiana will contribute her quota of teams to the national Legion program of having 145,000 boys playing a junior world series baseball tournament this summer. More than $120,000,000 in paid up twenty year endowment insurance has come into this state as Indiana's share of the adjusted compensation, a Legion backed measure. The program of the Indiana Legion is unselfish, constructive and successful."

State Commander McHale said, that according to present plans the sarcophagus on the Indiana World War Memorial plaza would eventually contain the ashes of an unknown soldier from each of the Allied countries including Italy.

FORGET-ME-NOT SALE TO BE HELD BY HEALTH CLUB

PROCEEDS OF SALE ON STREETS TOMORROW TO BE USED FOR BENEFIT OF DISABLED WAR VETERANS — SPONSORED BY JESSE M. LEE POST

Proceeds of the seventh annual Forget-me-not sale by Jesse M. Lee Post No. 1550, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., will be used exclusively for the betterment of conditions among all disabled ex-service men and their dependents, without reference to their color, creed or nationality.

As in years past U. F. W. Post maintains a relief fund to be used only for the assistance of disabled and unfortunate comrades, their dependents and the dependents of deceased veterans who are in need. The proceeds from the annual Forget-Me-Not sale to be held Saturday May 19 will go to maintain this fund during the coming year and will be administered by a committee of post members.

One cent for each buddy poppy sold by Jess M. Lee Post is contributed to the maintenance and development of the V. F. W. National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. This home is used as a refuge for the orphans of deceased comrades, and other ex-service men. Here the children are reared in "family units," under the supervision of a "house mother," and wherever possible, mothers and their own children are able to live together. The V. F. W. Home is providing these children with all the comforts available, including clothes, education and eventually a vocation that will permit them to make their own way.

The girls health club will sell the flowers on the square tomorrow if the weather permits.

Buster Keaton, as an unwitting and therefore witty college hero, is the feature film fare at the Granada, Saturday, when his newest United Artists picture, "College" will be offered.

"College" offers Buster Keaton in an entirely new setting and presents his frozen-faced antics against a quickly shifting background of baseball games, track meets, regattas and fraternity celebrations. He is The Boy, bright enough alumnus of a little high school, but not so big a fish in the larger collegiate pond, especially as the little lady of his heart insists that he demonstrate his athletic prowess. The finale of the picture occurs at the annual boat race, Buster hoping to be coxswain of his college crew.

Literally hundreds of world-famous college athletes, Olympic champions, and world's record-holders, including Morton Kacer, Bud Houser, Lee Barnes, Kenneth Grumbles, Leighton Dye and Charles Borah, as well as the baseball team of the University of Southern California, support Keaton in "College." All of them appear voluntarily and without remuneration in the film to stimulate interest in the city of Los Angeles, where much of "College" was filmed as the site for the next Olympic games.

THE VONCASTLE

Dog Star Featured In "Ranger Of The North"

Dog lovers of this city will have their opportunity Saturday to witness the popular FBO canine star, Ranger, in his latest production, "Ranger of the North," which has its run at the Voncastle Theatre.

In this picture, Ranger is introduced as a wild dog who becomes the faithful and gallant comrade of a city-bred young man who wins a fortune and the love of a beautiful woman by his heroic action in exploring a haunted mountain which has been the death of many a hardy woodsman.

Beautiful scenic effects feature the picture, as the entire film was made in the picturesque wooded mountains of the High Sierras in the vicinity of Mammoth Lake, California.

The story was specially written for Ranger by Ewart Adamson, one of the screen's most prominent writers, and was directed by Jerome Storm, a director of more than ordinary repute.

PUBLISHER WINS IN $1,000,000 LABEL SUIT

NEW YORK, May 17.—(INS)—A sealed verdict for the defendants was returned today by a jury in Supreme Court in the $1,000,000 label suit brought by Dr. George H. Sherman, Detroit vaccine manufacturer, against Hearst's International Magazine, Norman Hapgood, editor of the publication, and Paul H. Dekrier.

An article written by Dekrier, published in the December, 1922, issue of the magazine under the title "Vaccine for Broken Legs," was the basis of the action. The writer branded Sherman as a charlatan for making and distributing vaccines purporting to cure different diseases.

The verdict was a full exoneration of the magazine and its editor and publisher. The defendants fought the case on the ground that the article contained nothing but the truth, and Justice Joseph M. Callahan so instructed the jury.

CONVINCED THAT IT IS WONDERFUL FOR THE STOMACH

New Konjola Benefited Her In Every Way; Feeling Fine Again

MRS. ISAAC ELLER

"Konjola is the only thing I have ever taken in many years that ended my stomach trouble," said Mrs. Isaac Eller, 1005 West Seventh street, Bloomington, Ind. "After every meal I suffered agonies from indigestion. Finally I developed rheumatism and it seemed that my entire body was a solid mass of aches and pains. My nerves were affected and I did not get the proper rest at night."

"When I read about Konjola I decided to give this medicine a trial. I did not expect it to help the rheumatism so you can imagine my surprise when I noticed the pains easing up. Now it is a fact that I haven't a single ache, or pain of rheumatism. The stomach trouble is gone and I can eat anything that I want without suffering afterward and I enjoy sound and restful sleep every night. My health in general is improved so much that I hardly know what to make of it, but I know that Konjola was the only medicine that helped me. That is the reason why I am endorsing this medicine to others who are suffering as I once did."

Konjola is sold in Greencastle at The Owl drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this section.—Adv.

GOV. LOWDEN FORECASTS G. O. P. DEFEAT

FAILURE TO MEET ISSUE SQUARELY WILL RESULT IN CRUSHING DEFEAT IN NOVEMBER—SAYS ILLINOIS LEADER

CHICAGO, May 18.—(INS)—Failure of the Republican party to meet the farm issue squarely may result in a sweeping defeat at the November polls, former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and Presidential candidate stated upon his arrival in Chicago from New York.

Lowden added that unless his party meets the farm question he would not wish to run for President. He added he hoped President Coolidge would sign the McNary-Haugen Bill saying "it would make it easier for whoever is nominated."

"I have no desire for the kind of fame that rests upon an unsuccessful campaign for the presidency," Lowden said.

Lowden intimated he did not believe the East gathered the full portent of the farm situation. He held the farm question of paramount importance and characterized the prohibition situation as a dead issue.

"The Republican party was founded upon an alliance between business and agriculture. I have been asked whether a compromise would be satisfactory that would remove the equalization fee from the McNary-Haugen bill. I said the remedy proposed to apply the principle of protection to Agriculture. Industry has had the advantage of protection, so has business and commerce. I told them that the farm relief bill without an equalization feature would be like passing a tariff bill without any schedules."

Mrs. Gillen Presents Modern Oriental Music

The last meeting for the year of the Greencastle Morning Musicales was held Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. C. C. Illen, who presented the subject of modern Oriental music—that of India, China, and Japan. The music of these countries is very difficult for the European or American to comprehend, as it is built upon an entirely different idea. In the ordinary sense of the word, for instance, there are no Indian composers; there are no concerts given, for the "masters," who are often poets as well as musicians, are the only ones who make music. The Indian scale is different from ours, and, since their music is without marked rhythm without harmony, and sometimes without melody, the result is that their songs are very strange to us.

After telling something of Chinese and Japanese music and musical instruments, Mrs. Gillen introduced Mr. Yang, a DePauw student from China and Mr. Sasamori from Japan. Jarohgdj... a 65ft entertainment accompanying himself on a banjo. Mr. Yang sang "Plum Blossoms," and without instrument he sang "Pictures," "Old Men," and "A Man in a Foreign Country." Although the "native" Japanese music is not written, Mr. Sasamori was able to sing some so-called "modern" songs. One was his own composition "Shadow." The others were a children's song used in the kindergarten, a song called "Toy Ship" and a Japanese cradle song, which he accompanied on his ukelele. Mrs. Otis also played a selection by Yumada, a modern Japanese composer.

CAPT. HALDEMAN WOULD TRY 12,000 MILE FLIGHT

HAS IN MIND HOP FROM TOKIO TO PARIS, FRANCE, ACCORDING TO ANNOUNCEMENT TO FRIENDS IN INDIANAPOLIS—WOULD BE ALMOST ENTIRELY OVER LAND

By JACK CEJNAR
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
INDIANAPOLIS, May 17.—George Haldeman who with Ruth Elder was rescued dramatically from an ocean grave last summer in their aerial dash across the Atlantic has in mind a flight from Tokio, Japan, to Paris, France, by way of Alaska and Iceland, a distance of nearly 12,000 miles, it was learned here today.

Haldeman has confided his ambition to his friends here and has expressed the hope that Eddie Stinson of Detroit with whom Haldeman recently captured the world's endurance flight record at Jacksonville, Florida, may accompany him on this trip.

The trans-Atlantic aviator hopped off at Schoen Field here this morning for Detroit in his Stinson-Detroler monoplane as an escort for the F-13 which is carrying the Bremen flyers, Baron von Huenefeld, Captain Herman Koehl and Major James Fitzmaurice from this city to Detroit.

Haldeman said he planned to return to Indianapolis on Friday and continue his visit here for several more weeks.

"I am just crazy to make this Tokio-Paris flight," Haldeman told his friends here. "I want to make a long land flight."

The proposed route from Tokio to Paris would cover about 12,000 miles it was estimated. Most of it would be over land with only one hop over water of any consequence—the 575 miles of North Atlantic ocean between Iceland and Scotland.

Haldeman refused to discuss details of his proposed flight.

"There is nothing definite to it yet," he said. "I have such a flight in mind but no time has been set for it."

As vaguely outlined by Haldeman the flight would start at Tokio, Japan, and follow the Kurile islands to Kamihata, cross the Bering Strait to Alaska, follow the Pacific coast to the Northern United States, proceed to the Atlantic coast and follow the great circle course to Newfoundland, cross the Davis Strait to Greenland, cross the Denmark Strait to Iceland and then hop across the North Atlantic to Scotland, from where it would continue to Paris.

The object of the flight would be to demonstrate the practicability and safety of aerial transportation between Tokio and Paris it was said.

Haldeman arrived in Indianapolis unheralded one day last week in his monoplane. He landed at Mars Hill airport and since then has been visiting friends here. Shortly after his arrival he gave an interview in which he said that he had in mind a long flight but refused to state where. The aviator, however, confided his plan to his friends here and the news leaked out today.

MAY 25 SET AS DATE FOR SHUMAKER ARGUMENTS

SOUTH BEND, Ind., May 17.—(INS)—Circuit Judge Cyrus Pattee today set May 25 as the date for hearing arguments on the motion of attorneys for Edward S. Shumaker, Indiana Anti Saloon League superintendent, to quash Attorney General Arthur L. Gilliom's affidavit charging violation of the State corrupt practices act.

Ralph Kane, Gilliom's senatorial campaign manager, has entered an appearance for the State.

Gilliom's affidavit charges that Shumaker through classifying Gilliom as "wet of record" during the Attorney General's race against United States Senator Arthur R. Robinson in the recent primary.

Proof that he is in reality a "dry" will be presented by Gilliom, he said. Shumaker now is under sentence of 60 days at the State Penal Farm with a fine of $250 following his conviction of contempt of the State Supreme Court, members of which he also called "wet."

DUNCAN GUILTY

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 18.—Russell V. Duncan, state representative from Marion County, was found guilty by a jury in Federal court yesterday, for the second time, of theft of a government check from the offices of the internal revenue department and forgery of the name of the payee.

Charles W. Tilton, former employe of the internal revenue department and tried jointly with Duncan, was acquitted.

Duncan was sentenced to two years in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., and fined $2,000 by Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville, Ill., who presided as special judge during the three-day trial. Duncan announced after being sentenced that he would appeal the conviction again to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. He provided appeal bond of $10,000, with the Union Indemnity Company as surety, last night, and was released from custody.

WILL ASSIST COACH GLENN CURTIS AT ARTESIAN CITY, ACCORDING TO BRAZIL TIMES—GRADUATE OF DEPAUW UNIVERSITY

(Brazil Times)
Coach Glenn Adams, of Brazil High School athletics, today verified the rumor that has been heard on the streets for several days, that he has resigned his position here by his announcement that he has signed a contract with Martinsville High School as coach of a football and track team to be organized there during the coming school year and as an assistant coach to Glenn Curtis, the master of basketball.

Coach Adams has been very successful in Brazil coming here from Wiley High School at Terre Haute, where he had served as a coach the year previous. Mr. Adams is a graduate of DePauw where he was an all-around athlete having been especially outstanding in football and track and field sports. His broad jump record of 22 feet 7 inches still stands in Indiana for college athletes to "jump at." He was successful at Wiley as coach of a football team that defeated Brazil and was brought over the next year when Coach Donovan Moffett went to Lima, O., as coach, largely because of Mr. Moffett's recommendations.

Mr. Adams started out by training one of the best football teams Brazil has ever had and came within one game of being eligible for a state championship. This was one of the few teams that ever defeated Clinton in the Thanksgiving game. He also had a splendid track team that won the district championship; developed a relay team that lowered the state record about seven seconds and captured the National High School championship last year. After a basketball season of mediocre success his first year he started his second with a rigid set of training rules and a definite understanding with the boys about discipline and rules with the result that the team won 27 games and lost three to the three best teams in the state; Muncie, Martinsville and Bainbridge. The team was the first Brazil quintet to ever win a Wabash Valley Championship. In the regional basketball games at Bloomington, the Brazil team was defeated by only one point by the state championship Martinsville team which classed Brazil as among the best.

REIGH COUNT DERBY CHOICE

By Davis J. Walsh
I. N. S. Sport Editor
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 18.—Having spent the last twenty-four hours disguised as a wildcat in the feed box, I am forced to the conclusion today that there is only one factor operating against Reigh Count's chances of winning the Kentucky derby tomorrow afternoon.

He doesn't read the newspapers. He, therefore, can't know that all track-wise folk are agreed that there is nothing in the field that can be figured to beat him. He can not turn to the form sheets and be apprised of the gladdening tidings that he has all of the heart and the foot of his field, and simply must do an imperial ballet to the pay-off over the entire mile and a quarter of the race.

He can't even surmise that the chicken gumbo in which he has been doing his recent "works" has been nailed as a further token of impending success.

From what I have been able to gather, the great race has two distinct possibilities—if the track remains muddy, Reigh Count can't lose; if it dries out by tomorrow afternoon, the rest of the field hasn't a chance.

The Count, in brief, is one of those incipient calamities known as a prohibitive favorite. He apparently is to the post with a vast majority of the homeless dollars in Kentucky riding on his withers, and it's too bad that a thing like that has to be kept a secret from the only party involved who can do anything about it.

As it is, Reigh Count will line up at the barrier with some eighteen odd horses, without the slightest suspicion that he is a great horse and the others are merely steeds, as we say at the livery stable. He conceiv-

WEDEKING NAMED CHAIRMAN OF STATE HIGHWAY BODY

INDIANAPOLIS, May 18.—Albert J. Wedeking of Dale, senior Republican member of the state highway commission, was selected chairman yesterday by unanimous vote. He succeeds Charles W. Zeigler of Attica, who was replaced on the commission about a month ago when Governor Ed Jackson appointed Jess L. Murden of Peru.

With Mr. Wedeking's selection, indications yesterday were that the commission's activities will become more open to the public. During the period of Mr. Zeigler's chairmanship practically all commission meetings were behind closed doors and press representatives were not admitted. Both Mr. Wedeking and Mr. Murden indicated yesterday they felt such a policy inconsistent with their duties as public officials, and declared they would do all in their power to see that no secret meetings are held.
